NORWICH OUTPLAYS THE BLUE AND WHITE

Hard Fought Game on Muddy Field Falls to Opponents with Score of 7-0

Norwich University eleven sprang a big surprise on Porter Field when they defeated Middlebury by the score of 7–0 last Saturday. This is the first time in two years that the Blue and White were forced to taste defeat at the hands of the cadets and it came very unexpectedly. The muddy condition of the field and the split formations that the cadets used seemed to have a bad effect upon our team.

The game opened with Norwich kicking off to Aines who brought the ball back about 10 yards. In the first play "Red" Breen received a serious kick in the head which forced him to retire from the game. After three vain attempts to break thru the Norwich line Parker punted to the 45 yard line. After the first formation of the Norwich eleven, Middlebury realized that she was up against a different team than that which Fordham University had beaten the week before 60-0. By using straight football the cadets carried the ball over for a touchdown. Boewe kicked the goal. An exchange of punts mixed with numerous fumbles by both ended the first half with the score 7–0 against the Blue and White.

Brainy Bower who had been sitting on the side lines all during the first half went into the game at the beginning of the second half and Middlebury's prospects looked brighter. The Norwich men did not seem to mind the entrance of the Middlebury captain into the game but instead put on a trifle more speed. Middlebury had a chance to even up matters when Bower made first down on a play thru tackle, only to lose the ball in the next play on a fumble. Norwich looked as if they were going to cross our goal line again when Boewe carried the ball around right end for 13 yards and Bixby took it thru for 8 more. The Blue and White line stiffened, however, and Norwich was forced to punt. From then on the game was replete with punts and fumbles, the only excitement coming when Bolivar broke thru and blocked a punt and Aines started after the ball with a clear field ahead, but just as he got his hands on the ball and the Midd stands were yelling frantically for him to tie the score the whistle blew and Midd had to taste defeat.

Jack Mead played a sterling game for Middlebury in the line as did "Sol" Aines, Dake and Myrick while Keppler showed his usual ability in the back-field. There was one man who stood out above all the others on the field and he was Boewe the Norwich captain who made gain after gain thru the Blue and White line.

The line-up:

Middlebury		Norwich
Aines	r.e.	Amoroso
Canty, Deufel	r.t.	Barrett
English, Bolivar, Canty	r.g.	Herrick, Earl
Dake, Bolivar	c.	Howard
Brackett, McCray, Bolivar, Dixon, Whitney	l.g.	Powers
Myrick	l.t.	Steel, Leavitt

LEARNING TO FLY

Letter From "Aviator" Jones '15

To the Editor of The Campus:

Thinking that the readers of The Campus might be interested in the aviation corps work, I thought a short letter would not be out of place. Before flying at all, I spent eight weeks at the University of Illinois, where I studied the theory of flying, the aeroplane, machine guns, wireless telegraphy, astronomy, bombs, miniature range, etc, and the eight weeks there were worth about a year in college (no disrespect to the college). The middle of August, after completing the ground school work I was sent to Dayton to fly. The field here is the largest in this country and is two miles on a side and will accommodate over two hundred planes. When learning to fly the pupil starts in the front seat with the instructor behind. There is a dual system of control and the instructor can instantly correct any mistakes. After a while the pupil takes the rear seat where it is easier to guide the ship because of the wider range of vision. The most difficult thing is the landing for a plane lands at forty miles an hour and the eye has to be pretty well trained to tell just when to level off and bring the plane down without bumping. But like everything else, it comes with practice and after 500 minutes I was "turned loose" as they call it, or allowed to fly alone. We are allowed to do only straight flying which includes spirals and figure eights. After about 20 hours I took my R. M. A. (Reserve Military Aviator) tests which consist of an altitude test, spirals from 2000 feet and landing 200 feet from a mark, climbing out of a 2000 foot field, landing over a hurdle, and two cross country flights. At present we fly every day and are waiting for orders. At some later date we will take advanced flying loops, tail spins etc. It is all great sport and will appeal to any red blooded American, and if any of you boys want to have a little excitement you had better enlist in the flying corps. The exams are stiff but that merely keeps up the standard of the service and will make you feel all the better when you get in. My best regards to everyone in Middlebury and best luck to the football team.

Yours in Midd,

CASEY JONES, 1915.

FRESHMEN TO BUY LIBERTY BOND

At a class meeting last week the freshmen chose purple and white as their class colors. In accordance with the suggestion of the Senior Council the class had decided to have its banquet last Monday evening, but someone in the class who had a little patriotic feeling stated his view at the last minute that it would be far better to expend the same amount of money in purchasing a Liberty Bond. The motion was carried without much opposition.

Let us hope that other organizations of the college feel patriotically inspired to do the same in the place of conducting formal dances and the like on which money might be squandered when it is so much needed elsewhere. The freshman class has led, let the other classes and the fraternities follow

A MESSAGE TO COLLEGE STUDENTS

[From the Patriotic News Service of The National Committee of Patriotic Societies, Southern Bldg., Washington, D. C.]

The defeat of the German autocracy is not only the task of armies and navies, but of every one who believes in the principles of democracy. It is not alone our soldiers and sailors who are fighting Germany but every true American should also be doing what he can to bring about a speedy victory.

Young men and women in our American universities and colleges will soon be playing a very real part in our national life. You are preparing yourself now for future usefulness. You should remember always that your first duty is to the nation and that you will find your highest personal success in public service.

The fact that your country is at war imposes on you a double duty to study as hard as possible and to make yourself as valuable economically as you can. Live up to your duty as well as the men in the trenches are living up to theirs.

There is however, one way you can be of immediate assistance to your country. You can purchase and help sell Liberty Bonds. Put what money you can spare now into the safest investment in the world. The cash, into which you can at any time convert these interest-bearing bonds, may prove most useful when you are starting to earn your own living. Buy Liberty Bonds and urge others to buy them!

Yours sincerely,

P. P. CLAXTON.

(Head of the U. S. Department of Education.)

Good Words for the Spanish School

In the current number of High Points, a bulletin devoted to the interests of Modern Language teaching in New York City the following appreciative statement is made regarding the Spanish Summer School:

"Fifteen teachers in our high schools attended the past summer the Spanish courses given in the Romance Language Schools of Middlebury College, Vermont. Those who did this work have only words of commendation for the instruction received in these courses which were in charge of Professors Moreno-Lacalle and Martel of the United States Naval Academy. Five courses were offered: Elementary Spanish, Conversational Spanish, Spanish Literature, The Teaching of Spanish, and Latin-American Geography and Industry. A Spanish Club, a separate Spanish table and much illustrative material for the teaching of Spanish were provided."

Hop Committee Appointed

At a sophomore class meeting held October 8, Charles Haugh was elected chairman of the sophomore Hop committee with the power to choose as assistants one from each fraternity and sorority and two neutrals.

The following were chosen: Nelson, E. Ross, McSweeney, Carpentier, Vroom, Misses Ball, Baldwin, Requa, Graves and Cambridge.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Y. M. C. A.

The following letter is being sent to the faculty and men of the college by the Young Men's Christian Association for the purpose of presenting the opportunities for rendering the largest possible service to Middlebury men, both at home and in actual service, and to enlist as many men as possible for work in the home unit of the association whose activities are world-wide in their scope. It is hoped that there will be a generous response to this call on the part of students and faculty alike.

TO THE MEN OF MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE:

This letter calls upon you for an important decision. Please read it through and give some careful thought to the program it proposes, so that your decision may be made intelligently.

At the present moment the Y. M. C. A. throughout the world is being intrusted by the warring governments with the stupendous task of saving their armies from demoralization. In the training camps, in the trenches, and in the military prisons of Europe, the Young Men's Christian Association is making the fight of its life against evils more deadly than the bullets of the enemy. In the near future some of you may be called to stand in the thick of this fight. Why not get ready for the job by enlisting now in your own home unit of this great international organization, and begin to do just what those at the front are doing, that is, render the service that is needed where you happen to be?

The key-note this year for the Middlebury College Y. M. C. A. is service: service to the one hundred Midd men at the front; service to the more than one hundred still in the college; service to the community in which you happen to be. And all the while we'll be training ourselves and others for whatever bigger, harder service the near future may thrust upon us. We expect to modify our plans to meet new needs as they come; but so far our program includes the following enterprises:

RELIGIOUS MEETINGS

We shall hold one religious meeting each week. Once a month this meeting will be open to all male students of the college; and for this occasion special preparation will be made, in order that it may be of undoubted interest and importance and that every man in college may be tactfully invited to attend. The other three meetings in each month will be intended only for that smaller group who are deeply interested in the Association's religious work, and who are willing, without any urging, to meet once a week for prayer, inspiration, and an interchange of thought on common religious problems.

WAR SERVICE

We will give to every man who wishes it a chance to share in the work of helping Middlebury men at the front. The War Service Committee will have increasingly heavy burdens placed upon it by the natural growth of the work it has already begun; and these burdens it intends to share with other members of the Christian Associations. Men of ability and

"Why Not the Women?"

The article which appeared under the above caption in the issue of October 3 requires further comment. The matter was brought up two years ago in connection with the football season, but the united cheering of the men and women was deemed inadvisable. There are several reasons for this, the chief of which is that female voices are not adapted for outdoor cheering, especially in combination with male voices, and the effect at a little distance is a squeaky dissonance. This alone is sufficient reason for not cheering together. Moreover, there are many practical difficulties which stand in the way of any consistent co-operation in this line.

There is a part, however, which the women can play in the support of college athletics. Two years ago the girls added very materially to the excellent spirit shown at the U. V. M. game by carrying out a song program which was very successful. The girls were costumed to form a large M in blue with a white ground in the center of the grand stand. There was much favorable comment by outsiders who witnessed the game. Women's voices are adapted for very attractive outdoor singing, and when done well, the effect is always very pleasing.

One of the leading educators of the day has aptly said that the best attitude a person can have is one of "intelligent ignorance". There is a lesson in this for all of us. We aren't expected to know everything without being told; we're here in college to learn, and the seniors can learn as much as the freshmen, if they will. But think of the qualifying adjective, "Intelligent". We have to use our wits even in being ignorant. This involves a number of things; not being obstinately ignorant, and thinking it bliss; not being impulsively ignorant, and jumping at conclusions; and above all not taking the views of others for granted, and using them as our own, without any real thought. "Intelligent ignorance"; is'nt there a lesson here for everyone? Let's think it over.

CORRECTIONS FOR 1917

Below will be found the addresses of last year's seniors which did not appear in the issue of October 10. Also there are a few changes in address noted. It is the intention of The Campus to publish each week the changes of address of last year's graduated class. Co-operation with all friends of the paper is asked to assist in keeping the list up to date:

THE FRESHMAN P-RADE

Saturday, October sixth, one of the most interesting of all college events took place, namely, the Freshman P-rade.

The procession lined up before the old chapel at two p. m. and headed by the band marched down through the village and from there to the athletic field.

If a chance visitor in town had happened to be standing on the postoffice corner when the P-rade filed by, he would probably have thought that a bunch of lunatics had been turned loose.

In the range of characters represented and the variety of costumes, the spectacle rivaled a circus or musical comedy or perhaps a combination of the two. Among the troup were, the Gold Dust Twins, John Barleycorn, a classic dancer, a cannibal from South Africa, numerous co-eds and local characters.

The P-rade was undoubtedly one of the best that has ever been presented although somewhat smaller than in former years.

Meetings of the Y. W. C. A. social and music committees were held Wednesday evening.

Military Training

Why does Middlebury lag behind practically every college in the country in the matter of military service? Every able-bodied man in college is looking toward military service. Those who are registered under the National Army Act will get their chance within the year; those under age now will be liable for service soon and will be called in their turn.

Considering the subject on its lowest basis, self-interest, collegiate military training is worth while, for whatever preparation—even the most elementary—that a man can get before he reaches the training camp will put him in line for early promotion. Putting it on its highest basis, every man whom the nation honors with its summons should be presented at his best.

Aside from direct patriotic motives, military training would be an unquestioned and sorely needed stimulus to the spirit of our college. The turning out of the whole body of the men's college three times a week in a common interest would raise Middlebury's pep register far above the temperate point.

Lack of equipment or assigned officers cannot be urged against such a move, for last spring's activities show that within the student and faculty ranks we have competent and willing leaders of experience and that as straight a marching front can be formed by boys in "cits" as by boys in khaki.

Many of us returned this fall with the expectation that military training would be offered on a sound basis—compulsory for the two lower classes, elective for the two upper classes—and we are still waiting for it.

The term "waiting" is used advisedly. We do not want the combination of a few enthusiasts and half hearted support from the rest. We do not want any fad made of the matter such as the time-serving knitting needles of ladies of fashion nor do we want action ranked with the degree of patriotism displayed by the over-fed man of sedentary occupation who does his bit by consuming a half portion of war bread with his turkey dinner.

We are waiting. But the men of the college are ready for training. We need a start—a good start—and every day's delay means loss. We need military training. We want military training. We want it on a sound basis. We want authority placed in its leaders. We want it added to the curriculum.

Can Middlebury hold her men if she does not offer and urge military training?

'91. Rev. Ira E. Pinney has been at Acworth, N. H., for a couple of weeks and has now gone to the Cornish, N. H., Congregational church.

'93. Dr. C. E. Hesselgrave was the general manager of a most stirring no-license campaign recently carried on in Manchester, Conn., in which town he is pastor of Center church. This campaign was characterized by outside temperance workers as the best organized and the most thorough-going of all those carried on in the state. It resulted October 1 in a victory for no-license in the town for the first time in many years in spite of the strenuous opposition put forth by the liquor interests, both local and general. So great interest was aroused over the contest that the largest vote in the history of the town was polled.

'95. Rev. Charles L. Leonard, principal of Troy Conference Academy, was in town Saturday and Sunday. Sunday morning he preached at the Methodist church, in the afternoon at Mead Memorial Chapel, and in the evening at the Baptist church.

'05. Sanford Lane of Ottawa, Canada, was at the college last week.

'13. Bertha Holden has a position with the Extension department of the University of Vermont. She has been lecturing through the state on "Canning" and "Food Conservation."

'13. Dr. Dale S. Atwood was married to Miss Glen E. Roundy on July 7 at West Burke.

'15. Ruth Kendall has a position as principal of the High school at Proctorsville.

'15. The engagement of Adelaide Ross '15 to Mott Hoyt '15, was announced Friday evening at a party given in the Sigma Kappa rooms.

'16. Miss Harriet Myers, who is teaching at Orleans, was in town Sunday and Monday.

'16. Frederick L. Fish, who is in training for the aviation corps of the United States army, visited friends in town Sunday and Monday, October 21 and 22.

'17. Webster E. Miller of Ludlow was a week-end visitor on the hill.

Ex-'18. Guy Coolidge spent several days at the college last week.

Ex-'19. Oswald Salzedo of Boston was at the college for a few days last week.

Ex-'19. Laurence D. Havens has a position in the office of the Fellows Gear Shaper Co. in Springfield. He goes back and forth from his home in Chester on a motorcycle.

Ex-'20. Joseph Bunn, now a student at Dartmouth College, was a visitor at the college Sunday.

Acknowledgment

The "coeds" who read with such pleasure the so-called example of "vers libre" dedicated to them which appeared in last week's Campus feel that it is only just and proper that they should make some fitting response. Accordingly they submit the following:

Oh youth, poetically inclined,
I've read your verse of lovelorn rhyme
Concerning Middlebury's fair co-eds.
You're trying, sir, to turn our heads.
You say we're sweeter than a bird
Singing a love song to its mate.
We sing not love songs here at Midd
Of thoughts like those our minds we rid;
We pay attention to our books
And bother not with young men's looks
For love combined with Analyt
Tends not to make a perfect fit.
Those higher curves the mischief play
And drive all thoughts of love away.
With due authority I speak
And if the reason why you seek
A sophomore as you I am
Oh foolish, lovelorn, Mr. Man.

Oh man of Midd, with genius rare,
Your thoughtful poem we've read with care,
And now we beg to tell you true
Just what we all do think of you.

Your poem is scarcely good for aught,
The meter's gone—we seek it not;
Yet underneath your every line
We see that flickering love of thine.

Oh men of Midd, to you we say
We need you not, so go away—
In study then and football, too,
Oh go to work—good bye to you!

We're glad you like us, even though
We waste your time and strength and dough.
Our dearest aim is just to please,
And if we fail in things like these
We'll call off any further dates,
Or buy your time at standard rates;
For your convenience, we must say—
Lest longing for us waste you away—
You're nice, at times, and handy, too,
But we could manage without you.
For just in parting, let me state
The clinging vine is out of date.

COLLEGE NOTES

The first meeting of the Women's Athletic Council was held in 30 Pearsons Hall Tuesday afternoon at 1:15. Plans for the year were discussed. It was decided that Louetta Haynes, manager of baseball, should make out a schedule of practice hours for baseball this fall. This list is now posted in Battell Cottage and Pearsons Hall. Miss Graves will explain and coach the game.

A Y. W. C. A. meeting was held at 4:45 Thursday afternoon in the Old Chapel. Ruth Baldwin spoke on "Why is the Y. W. C. A. Worth While on Our Campus", after which the meeting was thrown open. The spirit of Y. W. C. A. is much improved this year but even now the Association is not as strong as could be wished. Will not every girl do her "bit" that we may make this the biggest year the Y. W. C. A. has ever had at Midd.

The first Woman's Musical Association meeting of the year was held in Pearsons social hall Friday evening at 6:30. Helen Stilphen was elected vice-president to fill the vacancy made by Ruth Cann's departure.

President Thomas presided at the war convention held in the town hall Tuesday, October 15. College exercises were suspended for that afternoon in order that the students might have opportunity to attend the meeting.

Prof. Lawrence, Ruth Hesselgrave and Henry Chapman attended a Y. M. C. A. conference at Burlington on Saturday, October 20.

President Thomas preached at Phillips Exeter Academy on Sunday, October 21.

Margaret Harris '18 spent the week-end at her home in Stowe.

Elsie Foote '18 entertained Miss Annie Burke of Fort Edward, N. Y., last week.

Harold Olsen has been appointed business manager of the 1919 Kaleidoscope.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Nash and daughter, Janet, visited Dorothy Nash last week.

Meacham '21 who was to be the "class baby" in the Freshman P—rade, is undergoing an operation for appendicitis in the Burlington hospital.

Roy '21 left college for his home in Swanton last Saturday, being called there by the serious illness of his father.

ACHIEVEMENT

Twenty-five years ago the General Electric Company was founded.

Since then, electricity has sent its thrill through the whole structure of life.

Eager to turn wheels, to lift and carry, to banish dark, to gather heat, to hurl voices and thoughts across space, to give the world new tools for its work—electricity has bent to man's will.

Throughout this period the General Electric Company has held the great responsibilities and high ideals of leadership.

It has set free the spirit of research.

It has given tangible form to invention, in apparatus of infinite precision and gigantic power.

And it has gone forth, co-operating with every industry, to command this unseen force and fetch it far to serve all people.

By the achievements which this company has already recorded may best be judged the greater ends its future shall attain, the deeper mysteries it yet shall solve in electrifying more and more of the world's work.

WAR SERVICE WORK PROGRESSES

The War Service Committee has been steadily at work looking after Middlebury students who are in the service of the nation, endeavoring to obtain a complete address list of such students, and to keep the list up-to-date. A circular letter has been sent out to the men stating in detail the objects of the committee, and asking them to inform the committee of such individual needs as it might be able to supply. A number of replies have been received expressing appreciation of the service which the committee is endeavoring to render, and a few contributions of money have been received from various alumni. The most important part of the work is the writing of personal letters, which the men look for with an eagerness little understood by those at home.

earnestness will be asked to show both these qualities in doing their bit toward making more endurable the life of Midd men in the trenches and training camps. Tasks of responsibility as well as tasks of routine will be provided. Not only clerical work, but also work that demands tact and judgment must be done by somebody- The difficulty of writing to men face to face with deadly peril just the sort of letters that will take hold of them and stiffen their moral backbone is surpassed only by the value of such letters. As new problems confront the War Service Committee, it will probably need the assistance of sub-committees, and for the chairmanship of these picked men will be needed. Are you ready to serve your country and your college in this unprecedented emergency?

COLLEGE AND CONMUNITY SERVICE

We will co-operate with the fraternities in assisting, at examination time and during the semester, such students as really need help in the studies of the college course. In this critical year in our nation's life it will be a disgrace to flunk out of college. We expect to save a few men from this disgrace, and also to stir up others to get more out of their work this year than they did last.

The demand for Y. M. C. A. workers at the war front is so urgent that the home work is bound to be neglected this year. Therefore we will co-operate with the town Y. M. C. A. as opportunities arise; and we will seek to extend their activities and ours into nearby communities, holding, as in the past, religious, educational, and social meetings in rural schoolhouses and churches.

We want every man in college to join us in carrying out that part of this program which most strongly appeals to him. If you can honestly convince yourself that you can't spare even a few minutes a day for this service, don't volunteer; just give us your moral and financial backing by signing the pledge card and paying your dollar. But what we really want is you, and the best service you know how to give for God, for country, and for Midd in this tremendous year of struggle.

Please fill out the enclosed pledge and volunteer card, and return it at once to any of the undersigned.

Campus Elections

At the meeting of The Campus Board last week the resignation of Dorothy Brown from the assistant managership and Stuart Douglas from the position of associate manager were accepted. Ruth A. Hesselgrave was elected assistant editor, Barbara Russell was promoted to the position of assistant business manager. Eleanor G. Layton was elected associate in the business department. Ruth Cambridge was promoted to the position of reporter.

Delta Upsilon Initiation

The Middlebury Chapter of Delta Upsilon held its annual initiation and banquet last Saturday evening. Those initiated were: from the class of 1918, M. Smith Webb; from the class of 1920; Albert A. Student Government Meeting

A Student Government meeting was held Tuesday afternoon, October 16, at five o'clock in the Hemicycle.

The business which was brought before the meeting was the election of a treasurer, the consideration of a change to be made in the point system and the election of a delegate to the Student Government Convention to be held at Syracuse University in November. Christine Webster was elected treasurer of the Association.

It was decided to remove the office of the assistant editor-in-chief of The Campus from the point system, as that position now receives college credits.

Margaret Shay was chosen as junior delegate to represent the Student Government Association of Middlebury at the Syracuse convention. The senior delegate will be either the president or the vice-president of the Association.
